

Animal instincts

The catwalk is full of animal print designs this season so why not have fun with your wild side and bring out the tiger in you? You can take on as much of the look as you dare!

At the other end of the spectrum, monochrome may be more your style, with classic fashion designs that will stand the test of time. A more current trend sees the emergence of the batwing sleeve, an echo of the eighties.

Nude colourways have been adopted by many celebrities this season and have been found to be extremely versatile. This flattering shade appears to suit all skin tones and can be brightened up should you wish with a colourful scarf or bag.
