The IET is a registered charity of England and Wales. It is the second largest engineering institution in the world with membership of over 153,000 with active networks in thirty-seven countries. IET Humber is a dynamic network with current membership of 1200+, covering a geographical region on the north and south banks of the Humber. The area includes the major conurbations of Hull, Scunthorpe, Grimsby, Gainsborough, Driffield, Wragby and between. The aim of our Humber committee is to deliver a tailored and current programme of initiatives that promote career continuous professional development and foster sustainable links with schools, colleges, universities and industries across the region. Perhaps as important in our world of environmental, competitive and technological challenges is to promote 'competitive advantage' membership of IET. The world-wide professional network provides to UK business, student, technician, engineer or manager members alike.

For more information of IET expansive resources to help:

- Business managers grow organisation competence and business;
- All interested in developing a rewarding technical career with life choices;

Or to see our network's interesting programme of 'free to attend' lectures and life skills events, simply Google search 'IET Humber'.

Institution of Engineering and Technology Dinner Dance

Photographs: Roger Cousner

The Institution of Engineering and Technology (IET) Humber region held the 49th black tie dinner dance at Forest Pines Hotel and Country Club. The night was a great success, made possible from the support of local companies: AvertFire, Balfour Beatty, Deritend Industries, Dowding

& Mills, EI-WHS, Powell Industries, Quartzelec and SPEC. Honorary guests included Dr Phil Rubini, Head of the Department of Engineering at the University of Hull and ex-Vice President of Siemens, Mr Jim Marr. The companies generously donated raffle prizes with the proceeds going towards the IET benevolent fund.
